Let the weak say, "I am strong." Joel 3:10

You must become grateful for what you have.

It doesn't matter what situation you are currently facing, gratitude will improve it. The equation is very simple. If you are in a state of gratitude for what you have you will generate positive emotions and if you are not in a state of gratitude then it is because you view the world through fear and you will generate negative feelings. Call it faith or call it fear you will believe in something. What you choose to believe will determine the outcome of your experience.

"You must move from thinking in a "reactive" manner where you allow your mind to search the world around you in order to "blame" objects for the way that you feel; and you must change your "thinking" to one of "seeing" clearly through silence, calm, and a relaxed state of mind."
